STRENGTHENING OUR COMMUNITY THROUGH HIGH-QUALITY EDUCATION AND BUSINESS PARTNERSHIPS

SARENE WALLACE

The Ventura County Community College District (VCCCD) and our colleges — Moorpark, Oxnard, Ventura, and Ventura College East Campus — take pride in educating a diverse community of students and partnering with area businesses and organizations to enhance the economic vitality of our county.

As Hispanic-Serving Institutions, our colleges offer over 200 programs to choose from and classes in-person, online, and hybrid. The campuses welcome people of all ages and backgrounds, helping them learn new skills to enhance their careers, retrain for a new career, or be more competitive in the job marketplace. The colleges provide comprehensive support services to assist students throughout their educational journey.

At VCCCD, helping veterans succeed in their education and career pursuits is a priority. Veterans' success benefits not only active duty and veteran students and their dependents who attend our colleges but also the Ventura County community by adding highly skilled and motivated individuals to the local workforce and enhancing the area's overall economic and social well-being.
Additionally, Chancellor Rick MacLennan, who is a military veteran, has joined the California Community Colleges Veterans Caucus (CCCVC), which represents military veterans at California's community colleges.
