

BIO: TIM NARY

Tim Nary is the offensive security research lead at Dark Labs, an elite R&D group within Booz Allen that generates next-gen cybersecurity capabilities. As the co-founder of SnapAttack, his team built the first purple teaming platform to enable technical collaboration between red, blue, and threat intelligence teams. While at BAH, Mr. Nary has performed numerous penetration tests and red team engagements for commercial and government clients. He has a passion for offensive development and red team tradecraft, as well as participating in bug bounty programs and capture the flags.