

Chuck Weissenborn works at Dragos, an industrial (OT/ICS/IloT) cybersecurity company on a mission to Safeguard Civilization. He leads the company's efforts to support the Department of Defense and Intelligence Community and their efforts to secure control systems and associated operation technologies. Prior to joining Dragos, Chuck worked at Symantec (later a Broadcom Corporation) where he was responsible for all business operations support the US Army worldwide.

Chuck is also a member of the Army National Guard; in this role he currently supports the Critical Infrastructure Protection Battalion, West Virginia National Guard. Prior to joining West Virginia, Chuck was a member of the Texas National Guard for over 18 years, culminating in his assignment as the S6 NCOIC for the 36th Combat Aviation Brigade. He recently returned from a deployment to the CENTCOM AOR where supported the Long Range Precision Fires mission.

Chuck has deployed four times in support of military operations since 9/11 and has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal, the Combat Infantryman Badge, and the US Army Signal Corps Regimental Association Bronze Order of Mercury.

Chuck lives in Annapolis, Maryland with his wife Caitlin, and children: Eleanor, Bruce, Wally, and Calleigh.

Chuck and members from the S6 Section, 4th Battalion, 133rd Field Artillery, CENTCOM AOR, May 2020

LinkedIn: <https://www.linkedin.com/in/cweissenborn/>

Twitter: @cybrgng